

Bullying Action Plan At-A-Glance

Essential Reminders:

- A culture of compassion is created by ALL, especially the adults. Modeling compassion is the most effective way to teach it.
- Multi-disciplinary teaming is necessary to meet student's needs, involve a variety of professionals in prevention and intervention planning.
- An action plan for incidents of bullying is required by law, including documentation and implementation tracking.
- Correct students fluently when bullying occurs and ensure a streamlined response for intervening with more resistant bullying problems.
- Punative, zero-tolerance, and reactive efforts rarely work

Establish Safety:

- Address physical, psychological, social, and emotional safety and take action immediately in situations that involve threats to self or others.

Investigate

- Remain open and curious. The skill building process and proactive, positive intervention begin with how we talk to students about their experiences.

Support

- Focus on LEARNING and enlist others. Prioritize support for victims and bystanders!

Communicate

- Be clear and concise, avoid opinions. Only communicate support that is reasonable and won't be missed.

Document

- Email is documentation. Skyward is your ally against accusations of "not doing anything."

Follow-up:

- A check-in is always appropriate and timely, trust is built and maintained over time.
